

Camille Gibson is a Professor in the College of Juvenile Justice and Psychology at Prairie View A&M University, located just outside of Houston, Texas. Her twenty year career in higher education has included teaching previously at Brooklyn College and at John Jay College of Criminal Justice. She earned degrees in Criminology and in Rehabilitation Counseling from the University of South Florida and in Criminal Justice from the City University of New York.

Dr. Gibson has over sixty publications that include being author of the book Being Real: Student-Teacher Interactions and African American Male Delinquency and co-author of Juvenile Sex Offending: What the Public Needs to Know. Her articles have addressed topics such as drug trafficking; gangs in schools; race and school suspensions, sexual abuse, sex trafficking, juvenile sex offending, child abuse and juvenile violence. She currently coordinates a certificate program in homeland security and emergency management and conducts evaluation research. She is a former president of the Southwestern Association of Criminal Justice and a recipient of its Felix Fabian Founder's Award.